SECURITY POSTER CONTEST

Are you imaginative? Yes -- then enter the Security Poster Contest. Pictures from old movies will be displayed in the Operations Building, "S" Building, and at FANX II and III. All you have to do is choose a picture you like -- think of a good security-related caption -- and fill out an entry blank. You may use the blank reprinted below or one of those located adjacent to the pictures. You may enter as often as you wish.

One overall winner, plus 14 runners-up, will be chosen. The winning picture and caption will be used as a security poster and will be displayed throughout NSA facilities.

SECURITY POSTER CONTEST ENTRY

RULES

All Agency personnel are invited to submit original captions for a security poster. The first place poster caption will be used subsequently as an NSA security education poster.

Contest Rules are as follows:

1. All Agency personnel (military and civilian) are eligible to enter (except M5 personnel).
2. A person may submit as many entries as desired; but, only one caption per entry.
3. Captions are limited to 8 words or less.

4. Check the appropriate box to which the message applies (Personnel Security, Physical Security, Security Awareness).

5. All entries must be deposited in entry boxes at the Contest Displays or forwarded to M58, Room 1W149, no later than 20 November 1970.

6. All entries will be judged on originality and appropriateness. M5 personnel will serve as judges.

7. Winners will be notified 30 days after the contest closes.

THE NSA SECURITY WEEK PROGRAM

Since its establishment, the National Security Agency has increased greatly in size and responsibilities. At the time of its 10th anniversary in 1962, operations were such that a need for decentralization was apparent. This, in turn, necessitated the expenditure of a greater effort toward the protection of our end product. Toward this end, the Office of Security that year initiated what has become an annual Security Week program as an integral part of our Security Education mission.

This week-long program is designed to promote a high degree of security awareness in all NSA personnel through suitable lectures, films, displays, and other security-related activities. Through the years, Security Weeks have contained something for everyone. Normally, a central unifying theme is chosen and the activities are constructed to support and amplify the theme. All of the activities have some intrinsic security relationship to the prime objective of Security - the protection of our end product, our sources, and our methods.

In addition to these activities of universal interest, special activities are planned for Agency supervisory personnel. These usually include an address by the Agency's Director and an address by a keynote speaker - an acknowledged authority on some phase of security and/or intelligence.

In recent years Security Week programs have been directed toward fostering a better understanding of individual security responsibilities and promoting an atmosphere of mutual interdependence between operational personnel and security people. The net result of these efforts has been the successful combatting of security hazards and an annual rededication of all employees to the principle that security is an integral part of Agency operations. Using this favorable atmosphere as a base, Security Week 1970 attempted to determine and highlight those areas which may be of concern in the next decade. Our efforts along these lines were organized under the unifying theme, "Security For The Seventies".
